POLLARD VERSUS WISE.

A Fine Illustration of the "Retort Courteous."

A Hero Translated into a Bombastes Furioso.

As we published Governor Wise's attack upon Mr. Pollard, it is but justice that he should be heard in reply. Here is what he says:

The undersigned, in company with many of his Southern countrymen, had indulged a very pleasant imagination concerning ex-Governor Wise of Virginia. Since the war, he had heard nothing of this Bombastes Furioso of Southern politicians, this Rhetorical bravo of the old regime, beyond a speech to a horticultural society, and it was supposed that the culture of vegetables had quieted him, and that his ambition was now measured by the size of his peas. Beautiful picture of the innocence and humility of great men. It was not new. Bulwer relates of Lord Bolingbroke that in his forced retirement, he found consolation for his great disappointments in political life, in cultivating his "beans and vetches." "I think," said the retired statesman, "of having the walls painted with implements of husbandry, and through pictures of spades and ploughshares to express my employments, and testify my content with them." It was to be hoped that ex-Governor Wise had found the same peace in his vegetable garden, and that the world would hear no more of him, except perhaps in the horticultural line, and as an orator of fairs.

But the ex-Governor breaks through the confines of the vegetable world, and makes a sudden reappearance in newspaper print. The occasion is a professed criticism of a book, recently published by the undersigned, "Lee and his Lieutenants;" and the product, a frantic letter, which, without a single judicial exposition of facts against the book, is a volume of bile and fury, which would not be characteristic without the usual pot of filth, and the outpourings of those diseased rhetoric tumours, which have made the ex-Governor a literary stink and nuisance in the nostrils of all decent men.

In the first place, the author never requested his publishers to send his book particularly to ex-Governor Wise; they did it in pursuance of general directions that it should be sent to all the Confederate generals, with a request, conceived in the kindest and most delicate spirit, and showing the most honorable regard for truth, that they should furnish any strictures or remarks on the work, "not to be published in the public journals," for effect or advertisement, but that corrections might be made "in time for the second edition." The reply to this honorable and polite note is the frantic and filthy letter of ex-Governor Wise, in which, without pointing out a single letter for correction, except the significant mention that he was not put among "the most distinguished leaders of the war," and numbered with the Du Majores, he rushes into an abuse of both book and author, gets himself in a tempest, and lashes with his pen that thin scum of low and dirty words, which, from time immemorial, has been the dog's resort, and the demagogue's resource in argument. There must be some special cause for display of temper so extraordinary and so indecent.

The fact is, every line of his letter writhes with wounded vanity. The explanation is that the author of "Lee and His Lieutenants" did not assign to the ex-Governor the place he had expected in the portrait gallery of the war; and hinc illæ lachrymæ, and the loosening of the rhetorical tumors besides. Yet every candid man is challenged to say if the author did not really treat with the greatest kindness, the most charitable tenderness, the public life and military career of ex-Governor Wise, notwithstanding the bad distinction he had in the Confederate armies of being the only general officer who never obtained a single promotion in four years, and ended with the precise rank with which he began. But the justice of history compelled the author not to omit the ex-Governor in his well-known and conspicuous character as the Bombastes Furioso of the war. It was a necessity of the narrative. An interesting and indispensable part of the history of the war is the volume of conceit and brag and truculent nonsense by which many of the so-called Southern leaders impelled the war, and, playing the part of rhetorical bullies, drove the people into madness and ruin. No man illustrated this class better than ex-Governor Wise, or better expounded their ideas of finishing the war with a flourish of bowie-knives, or pooh-poohed more persistently the notion that the Yankees would fight. If any one doubts his leading character of Bombastes Furioso, it is easily proved from his own words on the record, which are curious enough for repetition.

Now, will the candid reader say the character of Bombastes Furioso is overdrawn for the man who could talk as ex-Governor Wise did, on the brink of one of the greatest convulsions of modern times? It was just such windy nonsense as that quoted above which impelled the South into the gulf of war. It was just such bombast that disfigured our cause in the eyes of the world, and made it ridiculous. The people of the South recollect how they were told by Wise and such men that the war was to be dispatched by a few blades of "old iron;" that the Yankees would run at levelled cornstalks; and how the ex-Governor attempted to scare the enemy in Western Virginia, by decking himself with immense yellow leggings and a pair of flintlock pistols. Such nonsense deserves something more than the slight penalties of ridicule. It was an important element of the war, an indispensable part of its story; it has incurred a large share of the responsibility for the fearful misery which overspreads and oppresses our land; and if all the big, passionate words in which we were told that the war was simply to be a foot race after Yankees, and the South needed no other arms than sharpened "bits of carriage springs," with which to pursue the fugitive foe, were gulphed down the throats of their authors until they choked, they would be treated as they deserved.

At least, let such men observe the decency of silence, and be dumb in view of the great ruins of the war which they once so lightly and insolently discussed. The public is done with their bombast. The day of the Henry A. Wises and Roger A. Pryors and Martin Lipscombs—the times of the gongs, and the bubbles, and the buckskin leggings, and the flint-lock pistols—is over; and a country covered with graves, scarred, mutilated, and in torment, is a monument of what a few swollen fools may do. Shame and silence befit such creatures now!

After writing a column on "Lee and His Lieutenants," ex-Governor Wise concludes that the book "will never hurt any one, and no one need prompt, correct, criticise or publish their discordant notes." Why then his critical and objurgatory epistle? The author is well satisfied with the success of his historical works. They have obtained a million readers; they have been republished in England; they have been translated into the French language; and the ex-Governor will have to run his pen very fast and in many directions to overtake their statements. They will live when his own three-day speeches and multiplied manifestoes have passed into the dung hills of the next generation.

When the author decided to write contemporary history, he was aware that in attempting the truth, and scorning all the solicitations of partiality, he would encounter many personal animosities. He chose to brave them. If he had represented every Southern general (even ex-Governor Wise) as a great Miltiades, or Scipio, or Charles Martell, or gallant Cid, the Campeador—if he had called them knights and chevaliers and "flowers"—why then he would have been caught up in the mutual admiration society, and been praised by the newspapers, and celebrated by all the penny trumpets of the South. But he chose to write the truth plainly, and fearlessly, and firmly, and soberly, for posterity; and the consequence is that he is perhaps the best abused writer of this day, constantly assailed by barbed paragraphs and the small arms of personal enmity; and the cowardly tomakawks of hatred, and all the weapons of malignant criticism. But he can afford to despise these; and he is really proud of the attentions of envy. They are no more the penalties than they are the proof of merit. The author has made it his usual rule not to enter upon controversies with critics. "No man was ever written down unless by himself," says Doctor Johnson, who proved the virtue of this noble and excellent rule in his own case, by never replying to the critics who assailed him from envy and personal malignity, or accepting their invitations to unworthy and unprofitable controversy. It is melancholy, indeed, how many otherwise deserving writers have "written themselves down" by too free a use of the pen in personal controversies, and killed their reputation in low and common quarrels with unworthy critics. Every author must, at least, trust his reputation to his own merit; and if he has such, he may be sure that the great public will perceive and reward it. * * * *

THE LATE JUDGE SMITH.

Respect to his Memory—Proceedings in the Law Court Yesterday.

In the Law Court, yesterday, L. D. McKissick, Esq., presented the resolutions in regard to the late presiding Judge of the Court, Hon. Thomas G. Smith, adopted by the bar of the city, with some touching and appropriate remarks, and moved that a copy of the resolutions be draped in mourning and sent to the family of the deceased.

After the conclusion of Mr. McKissick's address, Hon. J. O. Pierce, Special Judge, said:

We customarily pause in the ordinary routine of litigation, and stop for a season the restless whirl of the machinery of the courts, whenever we are called upon to mourn the loss of a professional brother. But when it is a professional leader who has been taken from our midst by the Great Destroyer, the duty becomes imperative of testifying in some solemn manner our appreciation of our loss, and erecting a monument to the memory of the departed; not, indeed, like the marble, to be proof against the assaults of the storm and the ravages of decay, but as enduring as the memory of man. And so the court now recognizes the duty of dedicating to the memory of the Hon. Thomas G. Smith a day of the term as a green and hallowed spot in Time's calendar—an oasis in the dry waste of the law—to be ever kept green and vernal by the tears of affection.

The loss is indeed no ordinary one. The bench loses a Judge of acknowledged ability and integrity and high professional honor, at once its ornament and support. The bar of Memphis loses a fellow-advocate of so exalted legal attainments, that to learn from him was an inestimable privilege.

A great Commonwealth bewails the loss of one of her first judges, and seeks in vain for one who can worthily fill his place at the head of her most crowded forum. The walls of this forum, while listening in vain for further utterances of his wisdom, will yet re-echo in the memory those plain, direct and clear enunciations of the law which marked so well his administration of justice here; and lawyers and suitors, officers of the court and idle spectators, will not soon cease to note an aching void where once his commanding presence filled their gaze.

Let the records of this Court show, among their uncontrollable virtues, that we paused here in the administration of justice—that justice herself, dropped her scales, and for a time let her arm drop idly at her side, mourning the irreparable loss of the priest who so adorned her temple and that Bench and Bar, officers and suitors, joined in devoting this day to paying the last sad tribute to his memory, and in marking the time and occasion by weaving the wreath of immortelles—only of words, indeed—but one whose verdure and blossoms, perennially fresh, and green, and more enduring than granite slab or marble monument, shall testify so long as this is a Court, or there are Courts in Tennessee, of the virtues and merits of the Honorable Thomas G. Smith.

The clerk will receive the resolutions, spread them upon the records, and send a certified copy, draped with mourning to the family of the deceased, as moved by Mr. McKissick. The Court will adjourn till to-morrow morning, and the offices of the Court will be closed for the day.

FIGHT.—Two negroes, named respectively Henry Rice and Peter Epps, had a difficulty in the dining room of the Joice House, about dark last evening, throwing dishes at each other, without regard to cost. Peter was badly hurt by a lick on the face, but both were arrested and confined in the station house before anything serious occurred.

STORE ROBBED.—The store of H. R. Downs & Co., No. 2 Bradley block, was burglarously entered on Sunday night, by forcing the front door, and robbed of four boxes of tobacco, of one hundred pounds each, and a few other articles.

EDITORIAL

WEDNESDAY : : : : NOVEMBER 13, 1867

It was well said by the ancients, that "anger is a short madness." It is a sudden unhinging of the mind; an impulse to which the noblest and best are subject. Some of the wisest rulers the world has ever known have bowed their reason before the storm of passion; but in their calmer moments have undone their folly and re-established government upon right principles. The birth of impulse, it passes away with the occasion which gave rise to it. But there is another and a different feeling which—keeping pace with the physical man—"grows with his growth and strengthens with his strength," until it becomes an unalterable law of being. This is the off-spring of fanaticism; and of such are the men who now control the legislation and shape the destinies of the nation. Blindly refusing to take counsel of the past, they seek to invoke the wisdom of "a higher law." The South, for two long years, has been waiting, with folded arms and bated breath for the "sober second thought" of the Northern mind. All honorable and right minded followers of "The Conquered Banner" relinquished their last hope of a separate nationality when, in obedience to their military superiors, they laid down their arms. We hazard nothing in making the assertion that no conquered nation has ever exhibited such a spectacle of unanimity. "Concession comes with a better grace from a superior power." This was the language of England's greatest statesman in reference to her rebellious colonies in America. The South was led to believe that a spectacle of magnanimity such as never had been displayed toward a subjugated people awaited her return to allegiance. The pen of the impartial historian will tell of the reception she has met, and posterity will decide between the conquerors and the conquered. Negro equality—political and social—is the banquet to which Southern men have been invited. Had we been told that these were the terms upon which we might renew our allegiance, the war would, indeed, have been one of extermination. The witch-burners of New England are again upon the war path, and now they seek a larger game. They seek the permanent disfranchisement of eight millions of free white men who ask nothing more, and will be content with nothing less, than an honest administration of the Government. The country now presents the singular spectacle of a government at war with itself. Congress and the President are arrayed in deadly hostility, each against the other. ANDREW JOHNSON has drawn his blade and flung away the scabbard. He has officially enunciated that henceforth no quarters are to be given to traitors. From out this chaotic darkness there comes one gladdening ray of light. The principles of popular supremacy so loudly invoked by the Radical party are about to become the cause of their own undoing. The stern rebuke which they have recently met at the ballot box is but the rising of the day-star. The kindling East gives answer to the rising glories of the West. New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania have given a noble response to the outspoken will of the people expressed in California. From the Pacific slopes to the shores of the Atlantic the country is all ablaze with the light of Democratic truth. "Not from one lone cloud, but every mountain now hath found a tongue," and we hope soon to chronicle the day when the last of the seed sown on Plymouth rock shall have perished upon the spot of its origin. The vote given to JOHN QUINCY ADAMS in the recent election is the foundation of this hope. The great and invincible Democratic party is again coming to the rescue of the Republic. It has already, more than once, rescued the torch from the incendiary's hand, which, in the madness of party spirit, would have set fire to the temple of our liberties. She will now see to it that the spirit of fanaticism and agrarianism which controls the Government is scourged from power and place. As we have before said, we are silent though not disinterested spectators of the struggle, and may God speed the right! It is Greek against Greek, and we have yet to see which goes down in the fight.

To THE thoughtful citizen, any indication of progress in art or commerce is elevated into a subject of self-gratulation. Our city, with its inspiring history, its struggling present and its future rich in promise, is to-day an epitome of the great South, emerging from her defeat, with the slow but powerful step of one who has learned wisdom and self-reliance in adversity. Throughout a thousand avenues of art and practical economy we were formerly satisfied to receive the results of Northern industry and enterprise. Northern brains invented our machinery; Northern brains built up our walls; Northern architects designed our churches, theaters and courts of justice—arranged our places of business and decorated our drawing rooms. Not content with reducing us to the level of forced customers of their ten thousand wares, they infected our entire mechanical, literary and artistic life with a quasi paralysis; foisting upon our community ever a multitude of trifling inventions, trashy books and thrice-diluted art. Men of genius in letters, mechanics and art, failing to find appreciation and patronage at home, either collapsed into the inevitable cotton planter, politician or mere consumer, or else sought another community where the efforts of mind in these departments met with some acknowledgment, and where talent found its natural sphere of action. With the readjustment of things throughout the South since the war, it has become a question of serious importance, whether we will lapse again, as to mechanics, arts and commercial enterprise, into Northern vassalage; or whether we will strike out original and independent lines for ourselves in these and other departments. And anything tending to encourage a belief in the idea, so dear to the heart of every true Southerner, that the development of his beloved land will be in obedience to a special and differential law, should be hailed with unaffected satisfaction. Such a train of thought was suggested to us by a visit to the magnificent establishment of Messrs. EASTLAND, LLOYD & GILBERT, china merchants, No. 321 Main street, thrown open yesterday to the public. Euphonistic terms become hackneyed and meaningless by their indiscriminate application to very mediocre objects of commendation. Such terms as "chaste," "magnificent," "high art," "mellow tones," "coup d'œil," etc., are thrown so glibly at the head of every enterprising grocer who sells sugar behind a stuccoed front, and the whole host of architectural vocabularies is so obligingly laid on the counter of every ambitious druggist who mounts a tawdry moulding on his shelves, and the busts of HIPPOCRATES and GALEN on his show cases, that we utterly decline to signify the thorough gratification we have experienced in contemplating this remarkable result of commercial sagacity and genuine art by even the longest or most pyrotechnical adjectives. We regard the establishment of these gentlemen, as to its architectural arrangements and decorations, (designed by EDWARD C. JONES, Esq.,) as something unique and original. We think, in sober earnestness, that it will be regarded as a popular mark of a Renascent period in trade and art. We will venture to repeat what we understand as the expressed opinion of competent judges—that no such unique and practically effective specimen of commercial architecture (in its peculiar line) is to be found in the length and breadth of the Union. We have seen many more extensive, more costly, more ambitious specimens of store decoration; but as a successful illustration of that art which embodies, in a small compass, the true commercial idea—as an example of that art which subserves the interests of the merchant by its attractions, and facilitates his business by its appliances—we may safely challenge for it universal comparison. We would revert, then, to the thought with which we began, and profess our sincere gratification in chronicling the opening of this establishment. It is an era in the annals of Southern art and enterprise. We are satisfied that there is abundant energy, here, to crop out in all efflorescence of commercial taste, if rightly directed; and, more than this, we are persuaded that with such specimens of Southern talent as this gem of Messrs. EASTLAND, FLOYD & GILBERT's—the well pronounced façade of the AVALANCHE building—the skillful treatment of difficulties in the fine front of Messrs. WORMELEY, JOY & Co., Adams street,—and, last but not least, the comprehensive arrangement of details (masterly yet simple) as presented in the construction of the public offices in the WALDRAN Block—with such illustrations before us, we are persuaded that our merchants and men of business need no imported genius to design their warehouses, or decorate their homes. There is apparent in all the architectural efforts of Mr. JONES, one principle which recommends him strongly to the practical man. It is the close adaptation of the design to the purposes it was intended to subserve—a harmony between the place and the business concerned. Minds to which artistic effects—merely as such—would be considered as worse than superfluous, and positively impertinent, very readily recognize the beauty of that useful skill which adds brilliance to merchandise exposed for sale—which affords unusual facilities of accommodation, of entrance and outlet, and which with its graphic finger draws upon the retina of each customer an ineffaceable image of the locality and elegance of his place of business.

THE redoubtable FOOTE is again upon the war-path. Read, in another column, his opinion of the condition of the country. Our limited space prevents us this morning from indulging in extended comments.

POLLARD has replied to WISE. Those who read the remarks of the latter gentleman, should not fail to pay attention to what Mr. POLLARD has to say.

THE ARREST OF GENERAL McCARDLE.

What his Paper Says About It.

Very Interesting and very Independent Assertions.

On yesterday at two o'clock p. m. a file of soldiers, in charge of a Lieutenant, marched to our office and arrested Major W. H. McCardle, the editor of this paper. He was immediately conveyed to the headquarters of General Gillem, and from thence to the military prison, where he was incarcerated in one of General Ord's "bake ovens"—a pen about seven feet by four, without light or proper ventilation.

The friends of Major McCardle at once proceeded to headquarters to ascertain the nature of the charge upon which the arrest has been ordered. They were informed by General Gillem that it was made upon the ground that Major McCardle was instrumental in impeding reconstruction, and had, in the columns of his paper, advised resistance to the laws of the United States.

Upon this gross and monstrous usurpation of military power we have but few words of comment. The statement of the startling fact carries with it the commentary. Has Liberty—the freedom of the press, the right of the citizen to express his sentiments—been ruthlessly taken from us? If this last damning outrage of Haynau Gessler Ord is permitted to pass unrebuked, then, indeed, are we reduced to the last and direst extremity.

But the end is not yet. Kings and Kaisers have lost their crowns—aye, their heads—by attempting to stifle free speech and a free press. The examples of History will be repeated in the present day and generation; and the time is not far distant when the miserable tyrant who controls the destiny of this district, will learn the terrible fate which awaits him who seeks to stab the liberty of the people by assailing that palladium of Liberty—the freedom of the press!

General Ord, backed by his hireling bayonets, may imprison the body of Major McCardle; but the free spirit, and the free pen cannot be shackled by his tyrannical ukase. If need be, an army of "martyrs" will step forward to take the place of the "fallen hero!"

But as to the charges preferred. First—That he is "an impediment to reconstruction." To this we give the lie direct. Major McCardle has uniformly advocated, in the columns of this paper, the principles enunciated by the platform of the "Constitutional Union party," which recently assembled in Jackson—the same principles which are advocated by the press of the State of Mississippi, with the exception of a few of the fungus growth, which have fastened upon the community for the purpose of fraud, of rapine, and of pillage; and the same that are now upheld and maintained by our political "Moses"—Andrew Johnson, President of the United States. But this is crime in the eyes of our Haynau. Let us see if his victim is brought to the wheel!

Second—That he has counseled resistance to the laws of the United States. Let any man take the columns of the Times and point to one word or line to sustain the charge. The record, in every line, will stamp the lie upon it.

But this community will know and understand the reason for the arrest and imprisonment of Major McCardle. He has been a bold and fearless advocate of the right against the wrong. He has given utterance to the outraged feelings which struggled for utterance from the heart of every man and woman in this fair but desolated South. He has denounced, in fitting terms, the coarse and brutal tyranny of our relentless conquerors. In every case, where timid weakness has been the victim of power and wrong, his trenchant pen has ever been found striking vigorous blows for the weak and the oppressed. Wherever official corruption or insolence, be it military or civil, has displayed its hydra head, his keen scimitar has fallen. No wonder, then, the tyrants tremble! No wonder they seek to manacle the hand that writes their infamy. But the free, proud spirit of McCardle cannot be chained in their dungeon walls. It lives and animates thousands of hearts and hands that would gladly strike for the grand principle of liberty that has been stricken down in his person. The echoes of the victories achieved by our brethren of the North, in their struggles against tyranny, has not yet died upon our ears. Those echoes sounded the death knell of tyrants and despots and military despots in this our once fair Southern land. Well be it for the Haynaus and Gesslers to read aright the handwriting upon the wall!

But for the true reason of the arrest of Major McCardle. The grounds before stated are known to our readers to be specious and false. The reason is the personal character of the assaults made by the editor of this paper, upon General Ord. He believed, and still believes, he had ample justification therefor. Not one word, or line has been written by him that he was not personally responsible for. A custom has ever prevailed among Southern gentlemen, which is this: that if one is injured by a person beneath him in social status, we regard it not—pass it by as if the offender had no existence—but if an insult or injury is inflicted by one who is worthy of any notice, the demand must be made for personal satisfaction. The time has been when officers of the United States army were governed by the same high, chivalric principles. That time, alas! has passed. Now, under the code of Major General Ord, personal insult, and personal offense, is amply satisfied by a resort to a file of bayonets, and a dungeon. Alas! for the chivalry of the officers of the United States army.

Major McCardle is in prison; but he has with him the sympathy of every good man and woman in this community, and of every lover of liberty throughout the land. Kind hands and loving hearts will administer to his wants, so far as the duty of his jailers will permit; and we trust not many days will pass until he is again at his post.

HOLLY SPRINGS.

Special to Memphis Avalanche.]

HOLLY SPRINGS, November 12.

Election for all precincts in Marshall county, except Holly Springs, closed last evening. Whites nearly three hundred majority so far. Holly Springs will give fifty white majority, if not more, there being nearly as many white as black registered voters. Gill, Jim Williams and the other negro, Jim Edmondson, have played out most completely; as the vote in Holly Springs can not change the result, there being over three hundred minority of negro votes for that purpose beyond those cast. The vote for Convention will also be defeated in Marshall, by about three hundred votes, yet it will probably carry in the State. All the singing, swindling and lying of Gill and family have proved unavailing in the fairest of all political contests. The whole family, after this most triumphant result, will sink beyond the lowest depths of oblivion, and Marshall county will stand forevermore regenerated, redeemed and disenthralled.

Three cheers for the gallant Compton, Watson and Townsend, the brave and energetic standard bearers of white civilization through this most onerous contest.

OXFORD.

Special Dispatch to the Avalanche.]

OXFORD, Miss., November 12.

Vaughan and McCutchen (both Conservatives) have been elected in this county, over two other Conservatives, their opponents. The only issue involved in the election was for and against convention. Vaughan was for convention, if such a body was to meet, but against it if it failed. McCutchen is against convention in toto. Their opponents were similarly divided.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, November 12.

The Herald's Richmond special says the Commonwealth's attorney, in the opening of the Hustings Court to-day, called the attention of the Grand Jury to the incendiary speeches that have lately been made, and said that those who had made such speeches will be put on trial, and if found guilty, be made to suffer the penalties of the law.

Hon. James A Seddon, who obtained his pardon a few days since, arrived in Richmond yesterday, and to-day took the Amnesty oath required in the pardon.

General Schofield leaves next week for West Point, to be absent two weeks.

The Herald's New Orleans special says the Times of to-morrow will contain a dispatch from a high and reliable source, stating that regulations are pending for a thorough organization of the Conservative strength of the country, and that the platform will sustain Johnson's policy, and that General Grant will accept the nomination of this new party.

The Herald's St. Thomas correspondence gives further particulars of the destruction by the terrible hurricane. There is not a dwelling on the island but has suffered; many houses have no roofs. The small houses of the poorer classes were levelled to the ground, and there have been over an hundred persons buried who were killed on shore, and a like number have been wounded and maimed. Every few moments the harbor throws up the dead, and there is one continual string of coffins through the streets. Over five hundred persons were drowned. In some cases not a soul is living to relate a word regarding their vessels. The steamer Stye lost fifty-three souls. On the steamer Rhine, out of one hundred and fifty-one persons, only twenty-one were saved. The Spanish steamer Connega, whose heroic Captain saved many lives, lost seventeen out of thirty. The American ship Charles Sprague had but one man and the Captain saved. In fact, there is hardly a vessel but reports some of the crew missing. Men were lifted bodily from the shore, and carried to a watery grave. Not a wharf or a lighter is left. Houses were carried a thousand feet in the air, and the streets are six inches deep with tiles, shutters and doors, and nearly every tree is uprooted.

The steamer Columbian had just arrived, with eight thousand packages of dry goods, and was sunk in less than three hours after she came to her anchorage.

Eight million dollars will not cover the loss.

The merchants suffered heavily from the rain, as the tops of the stores were off.

Three hundred and sixty persons, who lost their lives in the hurricane, have already been buried.

This awful visitation has inflicted severe suffering upon all the inhabitants of the island, the poor especially. Messrs. Penniston & Co., No. 17 South street, who have vessels trading there, will receive and forward gratis any contributions of provisions or money.

Brazilian news reports another fight with the Paraguayans, wherein the Brazilians were defeated, losing ten thousand men and forty officers, and were compelled to abandon the field. The prospects for peace are not improving.

Joe Coburn is about proceeding to Cincinnati to close his match with McCoole for a prize fight.

EXTENSIVE AUCTION SALE!

ON TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 19, 1867, at TEN O'CLOCK, we shall sell at public auction to the highest bidder,

Fifty Building Lots,

Situated on Alabama, Broadway and Jackson streets, and near the DEPOT OF THE MISSISSIPPI AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD. Each lot has a front of fifty feet and a depth of one hundred and fifty feet to an alley, and are in a good and pleasant location, and within one square of the termination of the street railroad. Every lot will be sold positively. THE TITLE TO THE PROPERTY IS INDISPUTABLE.

The owner is bound to sell, and the entire property will be sold regardless of the price bid. The terms are exceedingly liberal. Persons who would secure a lot at a low price in a convenient and improving location, will do well to attend this sale.

As the sale will continue for several hours, refreshments will be furnished.

EXECUTORS' SALE

OF

VALUABLE FARMING LANDS

IN

Fayette County, Tenn., & Marshall County, Miss.

Near the Railroad Depot at Collierville.

BY direction of the Will of John Pope, deceased, we will sell to the highest bidder,

On Thursday, December 5, 1867,

Upon the premises, commencing at twelve o'clock, the valuable tract of land belonging to decedent, known as his NONCONNAH PLANTATION, about four miles south of Collierville, containing about eleven hundred acres, subdivided into several small farms, as per plan, to be seen at the published office of the Auctioneers. This plantation was selected for its superior advantages of location and production, and offers great inducements to cotton, grain or fruit growers, having a large proportion of open land under good fence.

The improvements are such as are usual on a cotton farm.

At the same time and place will be sold as the property of the same estate, a House with five acres of land in the town of Mount Pleasant, Miss.

TERMS OF SALE:

Third cash, balance in one and two years with lien retained.

OF

The Homestead Tract of Land,

NEAR THE CITY OF MEMPHIS,

BELONGING TO THE LATE JOHN POPE, ESQ.

BY direction of the Will of the late John Pope, deceased, we will sell at public sale to the highest bidder,

On Thursday, November 28, 1867.

The valuable place on which he resided, well known as "THE OAKS," located on the OLD RALEIGH ROAD, about five miles from Memphis, subdivided into small tracts, as per plan, to be seen at the office of the Auctioneers. These are highly desirable lands for Residences and Garden Farms.

The mansion, with its ample house room, and the large garden and beautiful grove attached, constitutes one of the most attractive and well-known homesteads to be had in the vicinity of Memphis. The property will be sold on the following easy

THE DAILY AVALANCHE

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1867.

Arrival and Departure of Trains.

MISSISSIPPI AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD. New Orleans Express; Freight Daily, except Sunday [illegible].

MEMPHIS AND LOUISVILLE RAILROAD. Day Express; Night Express [illegible].

SPECIAL NOTICE.—Our city patrons are requested not to pay any one for subscriptions to the AVALANCHE without a certificate from the office authorizing them to collect. GALLAWAY, RHEA & CLUSKEY.

CITY SCRIP.—One thousand dollars' worth of city scrip wanted. Apply at Larry Harmstad's office this morning, from nine to eleven o'clock.

TABERNACLE.—The meetings at the Tabernacle are increasing in interest. Preaching to-night at seven o'clock.

FRIENDLY SONS OF ST. PATRICK.—There will be a meeting of this Society this evening at half-past seven o'clock. A full attendance of the members is requested.

STRUCK A NEGRO.—A white man named Joe Campbell took offence at a negro, last night, about nine o'clock, in front of the theater, and knocked him down. He was arrested and taken to the Central Station.

MALAGA GRAPES.—B. Rocco, corner of Adams and Main street is in receipt of a large lot of these delicious grapes. They are beyond doubt the finest grape grown, and he has imported them direct.

BOARD OF MAYOR AND ALDERMEN.—There was a called meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen last night, but there being no quorum present, the Board adjourned, to meet to-morrow morning at ten o'clock.

CHANCERY COURT, Wm. M. Smith, Chancellor, etc.—But little business was transacted in the court on yesterday. Several orders were handed in by solicitors. The cause set for hearing to-day is Alexander vs. Alexander. Court adjourned over to-day at the usual hour.

LAW COURT, James O. Pierce, Judge, etc.—The trial docket was taken up and called on yesterday up to case No. 1700. Seventy-six judgments were taken during the day. Court adjourned over to to-day, when the docket will continue to be called, commencing at 1701.

"TALE OF ENCHANTMENT."—We saw a large amount of machinery, chests and scenery being stored in the Greenlaw Opera House yesterday, marked J. G. Deagle, intended, we suppose, for the production of the "Tale of Enchantment," which, we understand, will be produced on Thursday evening.

ACCIDENT.—As a couple of horses attached to a furniture wagon turned the corner of Union and Main streets, one of the horses fell, but though it required some time to loose the harness and raise him to his feet again, he sustained no serious injury. A considerable crowd was attracted to the place, but left disappointed when they found no sensation.

Joe Locke has just received at his mammoth news stand, ten feet by twenty, AVALANCHE building, Jefferson street, the Illustrated London News, Army and Navy Journal, Frank Leslie's Illustrated Zeitung, New York Saturday Mercury, Metropolitan Record, Gleason's Literary Companion, Harper's Weekly, The Yankee Wanderer; also the Storm Child, by DeWitt; 10 cent novels, books, stationery, etc., etc. Give him a call.

MEMPHIS RACING ASSOCIATION.—The following proceedings were held November 12, 1867:
Resolved, That the former action of this Association, relative to the Overton Hotel purse, be and the same is hereby ratified; and we desire to express that Colonel Cockrell, although a member of the Directory, was not present at the meeting of the Association when the resolution was adopted.
A. D. GIBSON, Secretary.

THE TALE OF ENCHANTMENT.—Mr. Geo. Deagle has arrived in town to superintend the production of the "Tale of Enchantment"—the "Black Crook" with another name. The company have been here for some days, and are billeted in different parts of the city. Mr. Deagle assures us that every arrangement will be perfected to make this piece a success and the only drawback we can see to such a consummation is the smallness of the stage. Certainly if the "Tale of Enchantment" approximates to anything like the "Black Crook," it can never be produced successfully on the stage of the Greenlaw Opera House. However we will see, and we shall speak of it, as we find it.

THE NEW MEMPHIS.—Lotta again, last night, kept her audience in roars of laughter, and we would advise any person who has a fit of the blues to go and see her. It is a sure cure. She is like nothing in the world—there is no comparison to be made between her and anybody else. She is Lotta, and that expression conveys all that is childish, mischievous, grotesque or funny in the vocabulary of mischief, fun, and pertness. Her banjo solo, although we confess we do not like it, created a furore, as did, also, her other minstrel business, and she had to give her jig three times before the audience would be satisfied. To-night she appears in three pieces, "Kiss in the dark," "Captain Charlotte," and "Family Jars."

CRIMINAL COURT, William Hunter, Judge.—The jury in the case of the State vs. William Saunders, mackerel, being unable to agree upon a verdict, were discharged by consent of counsel, and a mistrial entered on the records.
The case commenced on yesterday was the State vs. Cunningham, J. Henry, Jim Richards, and Lewis Wright, indictment for house breaking, etc. The defendants (negroes) stand charged with breaking into the storehouse of Lyon, Fies & Co., corner of Main and Jefferson streets. But no witnesses was examined up to the time of adjournment of the court yesterday. This case will probably occupy the time of the court to-day. Should it, however, conclude in time, other jail cases will be called up for trial.

MUNICIPAL COURT, Geo. W. Waldron, Judge, etc. The following cases are set for trial to-day:
408. The State vs. Thos. O. Smith, changing ballots at election; and the State vs. Ed. Ferguson, gaming.
All witnesses for the State in the above cases set for trial to-day must attend promptly, or forfeitures will be taken against them. Cases have also been set for trial on the days following:
Thursday, November 14.—207 to 222. The State vs. Rose Lovejoy, keeping house of ill-fame.
Friday, November 15.—405. The State vs. John Eason, larceny.
Several State cases were submitted by defendants on yesterday, and fines were imposed by the court.

HYMENEAL.—We are glad to chronicle this morning the advent into the married state of two of the finest young men of Memphis. We mean the gallant John Saroyer and the courtly Frank Vanhorn. Both well and favorably known, they can not help making good husbands, because they have been good sons, and we congratulate the gentle ladies, under whose pleasing yoke they will now pass, since they have left the realms of bachelorhood, on the happy choice they have made. Were we to fill volumes of eulogies in their behalf, they could no more express our appreciation of those gentlemen than will the simple line from the poet, which applies with equal force to either—"An honest man's the noblest work of God." We wish you both, gentlemen, and you, fair and happy brides, the fruition of all your hopes, and if we could stop a single cloud from casting a shadow over your young lives, be assured all your days would be days of love, and all your years but one pleasant ramble along the primrose path of life.

HALL OF BLUFF CITY BASE BALL CLUB, MEMPHIS, Nov. 12, 1867.
At a called meeting of Bluff City Base Ball Club, we, the undersigned Committee appointed to draft resolutions expressive of our regrets upon the death of our worthy member, A. G. Knapp, beg leave to report the following:
WHEREAS, It has pleased Divine Providence to remove from a sphere of usefulness our friend and companion, A. G. Knapp, Jr., be it
Resolved, That we sympathize deeply with his family in the bitter loss they have sustained.
Resolved, That in token of our regrets at his death, we will wear a badge of mourning for thirty days, and will not play any match games of base ball for that period.
Resolved, That this tribute of respect be spread upon the minutes, and published in the Memphis AVALANCHE and Evening Ledger, and that a copy of the same be sent to his mourning family as a testimonial of our respect for our worthy member.
C. B. DAVIS, W. A. J. KENNELL, J. D. NICHOLAS, Committee.

Hight of Meanness.

EDITORS AVALANCHE: Dr. C., one of our city physicians, was called a few days ago to see a sick negro man. The negro died. Yesterday the humane family physician called at the widow's house and insisted on having her carpet and bureau as part payment for his service. The carpet was taken to his office, but the bureau left. It is unnecessary for us to add that this doctor was one of the supposed friends of our colored population. Is it surprising that the old negro should die under the treatment of this humane physician? For shame, doctor! Take back aunty's carpet, or go and take her bureau also. If he has soul enough to take a newspaper, and this paragraph should meet his eye, will he please get the radical organ to apologise for this act of inhumanity and unkindness? Any, would any Southern gentleman take your carpet; would any old master or missus do so? We leave you to answer, as you have answered the writer already, that they would not, when you showed him the doctor's receipt for the carpet. JUSTICE.

THE RACES.

The First Meeting Under the Auspices of the Turf Congress.

Second Day—Tuesday November 12.

Two Exciting Races—One Dead Heat.

Again the sun shone brightly and clearly, yesterday, and gave us a glorious day for the indulgence in the sports of the turf. The attendance was somewhat larger than the day before, as we believe there were fully two thousand five hundred people on the grounds. The number of ladies was also much larger, and they seemed to enjoy themselves hugely. All the arrangements of the course, under the control of the efficient board of officers of the association, were of the best kind, and were carried out to the letter. The best of order was preserved, and we have yet to hear the first angry word said upon the track. All seem impressed with the idea that as they came to the course for sport—that they would have, and nothing else. Betting yesterday was more lively than on the day before, and the pools were much larger and more of them, and large sums of money changed hands, particularly on the last race. The refreshment department, under the control of Captain Cameron, was well patronized, and deserved to be, for he and his attentive waiters have done all in their power to make the visitors to the track comfortable. A deeper degree of interest was manifested in the races than on the day before, and the excitement, at times, reached fever heat; particularly when the "Duke of Orleans" came in a winner over the gallant "Victorine," in the two mile dash, when cheer upon cheer went up from a thousand throats. The ladies clapped their hands, and enthusiasm ruled the hour. The first race on the tapis was the Gayoso House stake. Mile heats, free to all ages, which closed with but two entries—"Ooltawa" and "Malcolm." On stripping for the race the horses looked all that they should be, and it is but seldom that two finer looking animals have been pitted against each other. The blood of both is excellent, and may be said to be almost "royal" in its descent. It is not often that an animal with a finer stride on the lay-out is to be found than "Ooltawa," but he can not gather himself quick enough on the return, and thus loses speed at every jump. Not so with "Malcolm." He gathers himself to every succeeding jump, as fast and perfect as the rebound of a spring. In the betting, "Malcolm" had the call, and was the favorite at great odds; but still Ooltawa had numerous and sanguine backers, who freely went their pile upon him. Precisely at two o'clock the bell tapped for the

FIRST RACE.

On coming to the score a good start was obtained, "Ooltawa" slightly in the lead, which position he maintained until the first quarter was reached, which was done in 28¼ seconds. After entering the backstretch, "Malcolm" commenced to put on steam, and went for the Albion horse in a manner which plainly meant business. At about the entrance to the third quarter, "Malcolm" collared him, when they ran together for about 300 yards, when "the son of Bonnie Scotland" gave him the go by. The half mile was done in 55¾ seconds. After coming into the homestretch there was no running done, as "Malcolm" had it all his own way, and his rider holding him in with all his strength, but even as it was he came in under the strings an easy winner by at least two lengths. Time, 1:50¾.

THE SECOND HEAT.

This was much the same as the last one. In the send-off "Ooltawa" again got the lead by about a length, which he managed to maintain up to the first quarter. There was some good running done down to the back stretch, for the first place, but on approaching the half mile, and beyond it, the track is heavy, and the weight on "Ooltawa" began to tell, and he again dropped behind, and the contest was virtually ended. It was apparent now that all the running had been taken out of him, and at no time till the score was reached did he endeavor to (or could he) recover the honor of his stable. "Malcolm" again came in under a tight rein the winner of the heat by two lengths, which he might easily have made four. Time 1:56¼.

After the conclusion of this race, pool selling became lively for the succeeding race for the Association purse, entered for which there were seven horses, and all going to run. In the pool selling the "Duke of Orleans" had the call, the next favorite being the Lexington filly, "Victorine," and the rest of the field we might say nowhere. In the outside bets the odds were quite as often given for one as the other of the favorites. Before the start was made for the Association Purse, quite a dispute arose as to the age of "Jack Gamble." His owner contending that he should be weighted as a three year old, and other parties claimed that he was a four year old. It was finally decided after much examination that he was a four year old, and he was handicapped accordingly. When this was settled the bell rang, and preparations were made for the SECOND RACE.

This was the Association Purse, and seven horses appeared at the score, ready to do their devoir for the purse, which hung suspended from the string. To enter into a full description of the horses would occupy too much space, and it is sufficient to say that their several trainers had done all they knew how to bring them in a fitting condition to win.

For the start the horses were placed as follows by the Judge: "Molly Austin" had the pole, flanked by "Still Water," who was waited on by "Jack Gamble;" beside him was placed "Tanglefoot," who was supported by his royal highness, the "Duke of Orleans," who gallantly allowed the Lexington filly, "Victorine," his right, while the sorrel colt of "Hiawatha," was placed out in the cold.

At the tap of the drum, a somewhat scattering send-off was secured, with "Still Water" in the lead, "Mollie Austin" next, and "Duke of Orleans" full upon her heels, and the rest of the field tearing away in a bunch. "Still Water" went like a whirlwind to the first quarter, when he evidently began to tire, and was passed in rapid succession by the whole field, and shut out of any chance for the race. So much for "Still Water." On approaching the first quarter, "Victorine" got the lead, having come from a sixth place, closely pressed by the "Duke of Orleans." After passing the half mile pole, the Duke collared "Victorine" and neck and neck they came thundering down the home stretch, and until they passed under the string there was about a length of daylight between the favorites, and they passed the Judges' stand in this order, with "Molly Austin" about a length behind the Lexington filly, and the rest drawn out into a string, with "Still Water" plodding away in the rear. Time for the first mile, 1:53¼. On entering the second mile, it was evident that the race was between the two favorites, and that the rest of the horses had not now the ghost of a chance. The pace from the first quarter, through the heavy made ground of the track, to the home stretch, was terrible, and both horses were straining every nerve to reach the string first. From the last quarter, and down to the home stretch, the race was indeed a fine one, the horses running neck and neck the whole length of the home stretch, and coming under the string so closely together that the judges were unable to give a decision as to which crossed the score first. They accordingly declared it a dead heat, and ordered the horses to run over again. This decision, as all decisions of judges do, caused some dissatisfaction, as the friends of the "Duke" contended that he won the race by about half a head. Be that as it may, however, over again the race had to be run. On taking the blankets off for the second heat, both horses were sweating freely, and both looked superb, and it was the universal opinion among those who had no money up that it was nobody's race; that "Victorine" had as good a chance for the purse as had the "Duke." Once more the bell sounded, and the horses were got to the score, and at the tap of the drum the "Duke" sprang away, about half a length ahead of "Victorine," and keeping so during the whole heat. The quarter was reached in 25 seconds, "Victorine" well upon the "Duke's" haunches, and at this time pushing him to his best to keep his lead. At the half mile, "Victorine" had collared him, but she had to fall back, and before the third quarter was passed a full length was between them, and in this position they passed under the score for the first mile. Time 1:53. The same position continued until the half mile of the second turn was reached, when the mare commenced again to rush for him, but she could not keep up the pace long enough to bring her forward, and she again fell back on entering the home stretch fully two lengths behind his Royal Highness. The rider of the "Duke" now saw that the race was his, and he tightened the rein upon his too willing horse, while "Victorine" came down the homestretch under whip and spur, and landed about half a length behind the horse when they went over the score. Time, 3:[illegible]

To-day is the third day of the races, and rare sport may be anticipated, as the following races and entries show:

FIRST RACE.—[illegible]

SECOND RACE.—[illegible]

Before we close this article we must return our thanks to Mr. C. F. Armstrong, for valuable information furnished us yesterday. Mr. Armstrong has the reputation of being the best race horse plater in the country, and he travels continually to attend to this branch of his business. He is from Nashville, Tennessee, and is held in high repute on the turf.

PERSONAL.—General J. C. Tappan, of Helena, Arkansas, is in town, and stopping at the Gayoso House. All will remember General Tappan as a chivalric soldier during the late war, and those who know him as a friend and clever gentleman.

Mr. George Deagle of the St. Louis Varieties, is in town, and tells us that he will positively produce the "Tale of Enchantment" on Thursday next.

Captain William Tucker of Mississippi, and Miss Emma Carroll of this city, were married at the Second Presbyterian Church yesterday evening.

Father Riordan, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, who has been seriously ill, was much better last night, and is now considered out of danger.

Major Hugh [illegible], well known in this city, arrived from the North yesterday en route to his plantation in Mississippi.

We are sorry to chronicle the death of Mrs. T. E. [illegible], a resident of this city for twenty years. She was an amiable and Christian lady, and beloved by a large circle of friends.

SUPREME COURT.—The Supreme Court met in adjourned session at Jackson. It held a protracted session at Knoxville recently.

HIGHWAYMEN.

Highway Robbers Operating Near Wythe Depot, on the Memphis and Ohio Railroad.

Daring Outrages upon Two Well Known Citizens of Wythe Depot.

About ten days ago, while Mr. E. R. Greenlee, who lives about two miles from Wythe Depot, was on his way to and within a half mile of that place, he discovered a bundle, neatly rolled up, lying in the middle of the road, and dismounted from his horse to examine it. While stooping to pick it up, his attention was arrested by a slight noise from the bushes behind him, and upon looking in the direction from which the noise proceeded, he was horrified by the sight of a man with a gun cocked and leveled at him. His first impulse was to grapple with him, and wrest the gun from his hands before he could use it, but upon second thought, he saw the danger of so rash an act, and concluded to entrust himself to the mercy of the villain. The highwayman then approached Mr. Greenlee and ordered him into the woods, telling him, at the same time, that he wanted his money. Mr. Greenlee replied by telling him that he had but one dollar in his possession, and if he would let him pass he would give him that and say nothing about it. This did not satisfy the robber, and he was ordered to strip himself, which he did even to his shoes. After expostulating with the robber some time, Mr. Greenlee was finally permitted to dress himself again and depart, upon condition that he would promise to leave one hundred dollars at the foot of the tree under which they were standing, within three hours time; and upon a further promise not to betray or speak of the meeting between himself and the robber. This he consented to do, and then mounting his horse rode rapidly to the depot, where he disclosed the facts narrated above to some friends, and expressed an intention of fulfilling his agreement. This, however, they would not listen to, insisting that a promise made under such circumstances—for the preservation of life—could not be considered binding. They then set themselves immediately to work to capture the brigand and his accomplices; and with that intention went stealthily to the place, armed and equipped, that had been agreed upon as the repository of the ransom. They were determined to capture, dead or alive, whoever might be seen lurking about the spot. The robber, or robbers, however, were not to be seen, probably having discovered the party, and knowing from their number and appearance that their intentions were hostile. After waiting some time, without having seen or heard of the robbers, the party returned to their homes to await further developments of the robbers' whereabouts, and to make more complete arrangements for scouring the woods and searching out their rendezvous.

On Sunday night a note, addressed to Mr. Greenlee, was shoved under his door. As nearly as our informant could recollect, it read as follows:

MR. GREENLEE: If you have me arrested, which I think you can't do, you'll be shot. You have betrayed the clan, and need not think to escape its vengeance. WILD AVENGER.

The note, which bore no other signature, seriously alarmed Mr. Greenlee, to whom it was now plain that he had to deal with men unscrupulous as to the means adopted to rid themselves of an enemy, and who mingled among the people of the neighborhood without fear of detection. He did not stir from home that night, but early Monday morning notified his friends of his reception of the note.

While the people were considering this state of affairs, and much excited as to the proper course to pursue, news came to town that Mr. Alfred Battle, of Wythe depot, a brother-in-law of Dr. Rogers, when about a half mile from the depot, in Loosahatchie bottom, had been shot at from the roadside, and wounded. The shots took effect in his right hand and left arm, and two of the buckshot passed through the fleshy part of the breast. As soon as the last shot was fired, a noise was heard in the bushes, from which two men suddenly emerged, and hastened toward him. Fortunately, a couple of citizens on horseback at this moment came in view farther down the road, and the rascals as suddenly re-entered the woods and were lost from view. The horsemen had heard the shots and were hurrying in that direction. Their timely appearance, doubtless, saved Mr. Battle's life.

This caused the excitement of the people to culminate, and they determined upon vigorous action. The intelligence spread rapidly, and the neighborhood was aroused, and armed men were flocking into the town by scores. By noon a hundred armed men and boys, accompanied by bloodhounds, started for the woods, determined to scout them in every direction and arrest all parties who could not give a good account of themselves. During the day all business was practically suspended, the citizens devoting themselves to the work of endeavoring to rid the community of a gang of robbers and murderers who were organizing a reign of terror in their midst. At our latest advices no arrest had been made, but it is to be hoped the hunt will prove successful, that the rascals will be caught, and the gallows get its own.

A great variety of heating stoves and cooking stoves, the best in the market, always on hand. Prices to suit the times. Persons will do well to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere. H. WETTER & Co., 1m Nos. 13 and 15 Monroe street.

MAGNIFICENT ESTABLISHMENT.—There is on exhibition at the confectionary store of B. Rocco, corner of Main and Adams streets, one of the most beautiful pieces of workmanship we have ever seen—a splendid palace, constructed in a most ingenious and elegant manner, of candy. It occupies the whole show window, and is one of the most beautiful and attractive features of that portion of the city. Large crowds are attracted to this fine confectionary establishment by this window, and when they enter the store they do not fail to find the largest and best selected stock of confectionaries in the city. Every thing in the confectioner's line will always be found here at the most reasonable rates, and of the very best quality. Country merchants and citizens wishing to make purchases in this line connot find a better place to promptly and satisfactorily supply their wants than at B. Rocco's, corner of Main and Adams streets. He has also received a large supply of the best Malaga grapes, which he will sell cheap. Give him a call. tf

RIVER NEWS.

AVALANCHE OFFICE, WEDNESDAY, November 13.

BUSINESS—WEATHER—RIVERS.

Weather cool. The river here is stationary with five feet in the channel out to Cairo. The Ohio is rising at Louisville with three feet and a half in the canal and four feet on the bars in the lower Ohio. At Cairo on Sunday the river was rising. A Cairo dispatch of the 10th reports a big rise in the Cumberland river; also says the Ohio rose two inches on Saturday at Paducah. If the rise in the Tennessee is as great as reported it will improve the Mississippi and make a good stage of water from Cairo to Vicksburg. A slight swell is looked for out of the Wabash, which will improve the lower Ohio. White river continues low, with three feet to the channel to Augusta. The Arkansas remains at low tide with twenty-two inches in the channel to Pine Bluff.

The B. L. Hodge left Louisville Saturday evening for New Orleans.
The Leonidas passed Louisville Saturday for New Orleans.
SUNK.—The steamer Peerless, bound for the Arkansas river from Cincinnati, was reported sunk Saturday morning at the head of Scuffletown bar. She left Cincinnati last Thursday evening, bound for Little Rock, with a mixed cargo. She belongs to Captain Houston, of Arkansas, and is insured in Cincinnati offices.
The Great Republic, Captain Donaldson, will leave the wharf to-day at five p.m. for New Orleans.
The Victor No. 2, Captain House, will leave the wharf, foot of Union street, to-day at five p.m., for Hale's Point and the bends. Mr. James is her purser.
A negro drayman yesterday, in carelessly loading a hogshead of sugar on his dray, let it get the start of him, and it rolled in the river and was lost.
The Ned Tracy, Captain Crane, will leave the wharf to-day at five p.m. for St. Louis.
The Empire, Captain King, will leave Thursday at five p.m. for Louisville.
A rise is looked for from the Wabash and Tennessee rivers, which will make a good stage of water in the lower Ohio and Mississippi.
The Julia will leave the wharf to-day at five p. m., for New Orleans.
The Louisiana, Captain Phillips, is advertised to leave the wharf to-day at five p.m. for New Orleans.
The Louisville Courier of Monday has the following:
The river was falling Saturday night, but commenced rising yesterday morning. It had actually risen an inch Saturday morning from the effects of the dashing rain the night previous. In the canal last evening there were three feet and five inches of water by the mark, a rise of an inch at the head of the falls since our last report. This is equal to three inches of rise at Portland, and from the indications we think the channel depth of water will steadily improve, as the late rain was general. The weather Saturday was clear and pleasant, and it was pleasant again yesterday, though cloudy in the morning, and the indications favor Indian summer. The mercury in the barometer was rising. The rain of Friday night last, though of short duration, was heavy and extended all along the Ohio valley, even up to the Alleghenies. It commenced raining at Indianapolis at seven p.m., and the waters at times poured down a perfect deluge in that quarter, following or chasing the train from Indianapolis to the Ohio river at Jeffersonville and here, and we expect a rise in all the Indiana streams, including the two forks of White river, the two Blue rivers and the Wabash.
SHREVEPORT, October 30.—The weather from Wednesday to Friday night was cool and pleasant. On Friday night it commenced raining, with a cold wind from the North, which continued until Sunday morning. Sunday was a damp, disagreeable day. Monday opened clear, and almost cool enough for a light frost. Since then we have had perfect Indian summer weather. No frost yet. The river is still on the decline opposite this point, with scant two feet water on the bars hence to Alexandria. For the first week since the surrender, we have been without the arrival of a steamboat from the city. Quite a number of them are on the way, but we question very much whether they will reach this point until another rise, of which we see no prospect at present. The Pioneer Era which sunk at Prudhomme's Bend, was raised and at last accounts had reached Grand Ecore, where she would reship her freight on the Gossamer, one of the lightest boats in the trade. We have no positive information of the whereabouts of any of the other boats reported coming up. The Flicker, which left this port one week ago yesterday, with a barge in tow, for Jefferson, we understand, is aground in the lake just above Albany, with rather slim prospects of reaching port of destination at present.

MONETARY.

DAILY AVALANCHE OFFICE, WEDNESDAY, November 13, 1867.

Local finances remain unchanged, with little or no activity in the market. Money continues to rule stringent, and there is a general complaint with the merchants of the scarcity of money. The banks, at present, seem unable to give any relief, and are discounting only to a small extent. Borrowers are compelled to seek accommodations on the street, (rates of interest continue firm—gilt edge paper rules at 10@12 per cent; commercial, 15@20. Street rates, on short loans, range from 2@3 per cent. a month.

Gold was quiet and steady, and little offering with premium rates at 137@138c. Silver remains quiet; buying at 128@130.

CITY SCRIP—In fair demand, with little offering. Brokers are paying 41@42 and holding at 45@48.

POLICE SCRIP—Is firm and steady; buying at 73@75, and selling at 80.

COUNTY SCRIP—Is dull, at 70c buying, and 75@80c selling.

For Bank of Tennessee, old issue, 30c; Bank of West Tennessee, 40c; Bank of Chattanooga, 10c; Bank of Middle Tennessee, 95c; City Bank, 50c; Merchants' Bank, 95c; Northern Bank, 95c; Ocoee Bank, 8c; Planters' Bank, 98c; Union Bank, 98c; Shelbyville Bank, 80c; Southern Bank, 20c; Traders' Bank, 95c; Bank of Knoxville, 42c; Commercial Bank, par; Bank of Memphis, par; Bank of the Union 95c; Buck's Bank, 95c; Life and General Insurance Bank, 10c; Union Bank certificates, 90c; Bank of Commerce, 95c; Bank of Paris, 95c.

COMMERCIAL.

DAILY AVALANCHE OFFICE, WEDNESDAY, November 13, 1867.

Trade in the leading markets yesterday exhibited a little improvement. A fair local and shipping trade was done in plantation supplies. Receipts of cotton by wagon, railroad and river exhibits an increase. The streets are thronged with pedestrians, and, speaking in general terms, present an active and lively appearance. Money continues to rule stringent, sufficiently so to discommode merchants.

COTTON.—The market yesterday was dull and heavy, with prices weak and few transactions throughout the day. Holders seemed unwilling to make concessions, while buyers operated with caution, in anticipation of a decline in prices. Sales for the day foot up small, with middling at 15¾@16c, good middling, 16½c and low middling, 14½c. New York dispatches at noon reported cotton quiet and steady, with middling, 19c; Mobile, 19¼c, Orleans, 20c. The closing dispatch reported a fair demand, with market weak. Sales for the day, 1,200 bales; middling, 19¼c, other grades unchanged. Liverpool market of the 11th quiet and steady; Orleans, 9d. The market here closed with prices nominal and unsettled. COTTON STATEMENT.

Receipts to-day	[illegible] bales.
Exports to-day	[illegible]

The odious as well as onerous feature of the tax on cotton is apparent, when the deduction is made. This would bring middling here down to 13½@13¾c, an altogether inadequate price, considering the producers expected to realize fully 25@28c, and made their calculations based upon such hypothesis. With the present precarious and expensive system of labor, our cotton producing States (or Provinces as they are held) cannot compete with other countries in the cotton markets of Europe; and, we may take it for granted, never can again, no matter what kind of labor may be introduced. Societies are being formed and others in contemplation to invite and secure immigration, with a view to the introduction of white labor, to supply the hiatus formed by the withdrawal of that which has shown itself so uncertain and so unreliable. This can never be rendered capable of competing with the cheap labor of the Orient, or even the slave labor of Brazil. It must be that the problem has, by this time, been satisfactorily demonstrated that the revolution in southern productions is complete. The field of agriculture will be devoted to a wider range, and the great staple will only be used as an auxiliary, instead of usurping and absorbing entire attention. The effect will be experienced throughout the country, and Northern manufacturers will feel a similar change from long continued prosperity, to the oppressive results of the policy against which the planting interest has vainly struggled. Besides, as a matter of domestic economy, manufactories must continue to spring up throughout the South, each one of which will diminish the demand for Northern manufactures, in proportion to the capital so invested.

Turning attention to the cereals and grasses, the raising of stock, and turning the planting into a general agricultural interest, will not only secure home productions at all times available for the comfort and support of our people, but will greatly contract the market for similar productions from the West and North, which were heretofore sold to advantage here. This may open the eyes of many, who are purblind to the effect of Radical policy from which they have heretofore been exempt. As a matter of economy, the change which we respectfully urge is imperative. A cotemporary, we think wisely, offers the following observations, which we incorporate in this article, to be read and pondered in connection with our own remarks:

"Passing through the great stock raising State of Illinois you see fields of all sizes covered with cattle—often several hundred in a single field. It is said this single State furnishes New York with more live stock than all the other States together. The total number of cattle sold in New York for 1866 is reported at 298,862 head, of which Illinois furnished 165,287. The aggregate value of all for that year is estimated at upwards of thirty three millions of dollars, and the portion furnished by Illinois alone at upwards of eighteen millions. Why should not our southern planters take the hint and enter as competitors for the stock market? The State of Mississippi, for instance, has hitherto grown cotton almost exclusively, and thought that cotton was king. That State has made its 400,000 bales, and received twenty millions for it in times gone never to return. But Illinois saved twice as much from her eighteen millions as Mississippi ever did from her twenty. And besides Illinois has made largely from her other staples and manufactures, which Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana did only to a small extent. May not these States enter profitably into a competition which demands less labor, and which for that reason now especially suits so well their condition. We think that every planter who renounces cotton for stock will be acting a patriotic part, besides promoting his individual interest by it. Cotton raising is "played out," and we hope our friends will adapt themselves to their new circumstances, and turn their attention to a more certain, comfortable and independent means of support."

The season for sowing wheat, barley, rye and millet is upon us. The farmers of this country should not let the opportunity pass without improving it. Next year we will witness a vast amount of suffering throughout the whole Southern country. The low price of cotton has disheartened the freedmen, impoverished the planter and bankrupted every merchant that put faith in high prices of the staple. No merchant will be found that will advance a cent upon the crops of next year, unless they are varied considerably. On all sides we hear of a reduction in the number of laborers to be used as necessary to carry on the large farms of the various planters of this vicinity. No good will accrue from a diminution of laborers unless the farming system is changed to adapt itself to the necessities and demands of the country. Wheat is as reliable as cotton, and brings hundreds of per cent. on the investment. Let the people make up their minds to plant largely in wheat, which would bring at all times two dollars and a half per bushel, cash. Rye is the most certain crop that could be planted. It is as valuable a breadstuff as corn itself. Barley is likewise invaluable.

We have repeatedly taken occasion to recommend the establishment of Immigration Societies in this section of this State, as well as through out the South, to secure additional white labor. We must emulate the industry of the North, and endeavor to compete with our powerful neighbors in population, which cannot be done by attempting to maintain the old idea, under the altered system of labor. Let us invite the honest, industrious, thrifty white man, whether from Europe or the North, to settle among us; and, as the best means of attaining that end, let us organize a Memphis or West Tennessee Emigration Society, to make known our rare agricultural advantages, and to extend social amenities to the fullest extent. Let us support and encourage home enterprise of all kinds; plant less cotton; devote more ground to the production of clover and grasses; take care of stock of every description; sow wheat and plant corn, and thus dispense with as much of the unprofitable negro labor as you can. This is the only remedy for hard times.

There is no excuse under heaven why the State of Tennessee should not be a producing State instead of a consuming one. Her mountains are rich with minerals; she has league upon league of coal fields, broad rivers, a perfect net work of railroads, fine producing soils, and the best of seasons. Notwithstanding all this, if we want a ton of coal it must come from Pittsburg; if we want a bar of iron, it must come from Cincinnati; if we want a yard of bagging, it must come from Louisville; if we want a barrel of flour, it must come from St. Louis.

The resources of Tennessee, as well as of all the Southern States, should be developed by every means that promises advantage. What is said in the extract we publish, in which the saying from the cattle product of Illinois and that of Mississippi from the cotton yield, in her palmiest days, will apply peculiarly to this State. He who raises at home all that is required for home consumption will realize the benefit of this advice.

The Louisville Courier, which carefully watches the interests of the South and West, presents the following striking contrast between the present and the past, which is not without its grand moral:

"The Southern States, before the war, were the chief export producing region of the Union, shipping of the one staple of cotton alone three hundred millions per annum. Radicalism has put a stop to all this. We learn from the report of the United States Internal Revenue Commissioner, for 1866, that the revenue for all the ten Southern States was a little more than nineteen millions. The amount this year will be materially less. There are counties in the States that have not been subjected to Radical-negro domination which contribute more than all the "Pentarchy." This is what the Radicals are doing for the material interests of the South. Should their detestable policy prevail, the time is not far off when the whole country will be converted into a desert waste. In the mean time the people of the rest of the Union are taxed an amount greater than the whole expense of the Government prior to the war to establish the despotism and negro supremacy essential to the production of such results. Never were people afflicted with a more blighting curse than Radicalism."

Congress will soon resume its sessions. What it will or may do, can scarcely be conjectured. We scarcely expect it will remove the onerous cotton tax, although that should be among its first duties. The majority which has fastened on them the evils under which the people groan, will seek some mode to retrieve the political losses that recently filled Radicalism with alarm, and inspired Conservatives and Democrats with hope, rather than adopt liberal measures, and go back upon their wicked plans of subjugation. There is no reason therefore why our planters should hold back their cotton, in the hope of better prices, or the expectations of the removal of the tax. We are confident prices will not materially advance, or that any modification of the tax will be made applicable to the present crop. Mutual interest demands that every effort be made to revive confidence, and that can best be done by sending the crop of cotton to market as rapidly as it can be ginned and baled. We urge this as a matter of general interest and honorable dealing.

RAISING WHEAT IN MISSISSIPPI BOTTOM.

Thomas J Catching, a most trustworthy man and large planter of Mississippi, thus writes to the Jackson Clarion:

DEAR SIR—Feeling as you do that the South can never be prosperous again until the people diversify their crops, I have concluded to state to you what I have known in relation to wheat culture in the Mississippi bottom. On the 10th of September, 1862, I sowed in wheat five acres of land on Mound Bayou, in Washington county. Having no experience in the wheat culture, I sowed only one hundred and twelve pounds of wheat on the five acres. The first of June, 1863, I cut and threshed this crop, and measured one hundred and twenty-five bushels of as heavy, and plump wheat, as I ever saw.

About the middle of November, 1863 and 1864, I sowed the same lot of ground and gathered at least as heavy a crop as I did the first year.

You no doubt remember that in the year 1862 the wheat crop failed very badly throughout the Confederacy, even in Virginia. This year Colonel G. R. Fall raised a first rate crop on Deer Creek. Thus you see, that during four consecutive years wheat was successfully planted in the Mississippi bottom, producing far in excess of the average crop of the Northwest.

I do not hesitate to express the opinion that the counties of Issequena, Washington, Bolivar, Coahoma, Tunica and Sunflower, present the finest wheat growing country in the world. I believe that with the same care in preparing the land, and all the improved machinery for sowing and harvesting, forty bushels to the acre could be counted upon with great certainty.

What I say in relation to the bottom lands of the Mississippi river is no doubt applicable to rich lands throughout the State.

Yours, truly, THOMAS J. CATCHINGS.

TEXAS TONIC SYRUP

A Vegetable Compound for the Rapid and Never Failing Cure of

CHILLS & FEVER OR FEVER & AGUE

Every Poison has its Antidote—Every Disease has its Cure!

THE people of the Mississippi Valley, and throughout the entire South, have long felt the necessity for, and want of, a SAFE, CERTAIN AND RELIABLE REMEDY, as a substitute for Quinine, Strychnine, and other poisonous Drugs, for the cure of Fever and Ague, or Chills and Fever. We claim, and the results will show, and bear ample testimony to every unprejudiced mind, that the Texas Tonic Syrup has supplied this want and accomplished this purpose. Its Tonic, Alterative and Antiseptic principles [illegible] that is all that is needed to stamp this remedy as the greatest specific of the age.

The ingredients of which this Medicine is composed are simple productions of nature abounding upon certain streams in the State of Texas, and were ever used by the Aborigines of that State as a specific for Fevers of all kinds, and especially Fever and Ague, which they never failed to cure.

A celebrated physician, acquainted with these facts, has furnished us his theory upon this important subject, and hence the product properly named TEXAS TONIC SYRUP, which we now offer to the public as a specific and POSITIVE cure for Fever and Ague, or Chills and Fever, no matter of how long standing.

Having had undoubted evidence of its prompt and certain effects from the testimony of a multitude of respectable citizens, we do not hesitate to recommend this preparation in all cases of Fever and Ague and Chills and Fever; indeed, from the facts in our possession of its intrinsic value, it would not be too much for us to state that when the directions are strictly complied with we warrant a cure in every case where it is tried. It is pleasant to the taste and the cheapest Medicine in the world. Therefore, in truth, it may be declared the day is not far distant when it must be appreciated and used in every household where Fever and Ague or Chills and Fever is found to exist.

FINLEY'S CHURN DASHER

Got one of them yet? Got one of what, Sir?

Why, one of the "Finley Churn Dashers."

Why do you ask me that question, sir?

BECAUSE one of them is needed, no doubt, and that badly, among your household conveniences, that the laborious and troublesome item of churning may become an agreeable recreation to the ladies, upon whom such duties usually devolve.

What's the Article? What's the description? What's it do, pray, sir?

Well, it is simply two screw propeller wheels attached to the lower end of a staff or handle which is placed in the "old fashioned" wooden or tub churn, and worked in the same manner precisely as the "old Dasher"; these two wheels revolve rapidly and in counter directions at every up and down movement of the "Dasher," completely disengaging and cutting the cream into the minutest particles; while at the same time by aid of the "air beds" in each division of the wheels, keeps the whole bulk of the cream supplied with constant currents of fresh air, thus securing by the simplest process the true principles of "Good Butter Making."

Well, sir, is the thing simple—very simple?

Why, so very simple when SEEN, that not a word of explanation is necessary. Why "Biddy," "Aunt Dinah," or the eight year old child can both UNDERSTAND and USE it, and couldn't for their lives imagine any other purpose for it.

Is it Durable and Substantial, sir?

It is made of the best Sheet Zinc—will not rust—strong—neat, and with ordinary care, will last as long as you and your grand children's children.

Long enough. Well, my friend, does it make GOOD BUTTER and QUICK?

It does not only make GOOD BUTTER, but about ONE-FOURTH MORE, to a given amount of cream, under like circumstances of quality and temperature, and in about ONE HALF THE TIME required by the use of the "old dasher." Am, however, quite ready to confess that it will not make Butter as QUICK as the boasted "Five Minute" and other "lightning" Churns nor would we have it so; for the very plain and simple reason that the extraordinary rapid operation of such Churns yields as the result a MASS OF SOFT, GREASY, PRESSED STUFF, instead of the RICH, GRAINY, WAXY, FIRM and LIVELY QUALITIES which constitute REAL GOOD BUTTER.

Well, sir, I have one of the "old fashioned" Churns—an old family relic of several generations past, and do I understand you that nothing more is required than one of the "FINLEY DASHERS?"

Nothing else whatever to complete the SIMPLEST, CHEAPEST, and MOST SATISFACTORY CHURNING APPARATUS that the world has yet produced.

Well, friend, once more—excuse me, sir—right well pleased, but a little suspicious. Can't help it. Are you sure this is not one of the Yankee humbugs [illegible]

Methinks I discover a mutual sympathy, a similarity of experience and a similar determination to avoid all humbugs, especially with the "Yankee" breed. My friend, "FINLEY'S DASHER" IS NO HUMBUG—not a bit of it, sir. 'Tis a "home invention," and will, upon its own true merits, win its way into every household in the land, North and South. The Dasher is open to competition, and for "common sense," every day practical use and household economy, we say to Yankee or anybody else, BEAT IT IF YOU CAN.

General Escobedo has arrived at the capital, for the purpose of obtaining some relief for the citizens of Matamoros, who are suffering from the effects of the recent inundation.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., November 11.—In the reconstruct Convention to-day the Elective Franchise Committee presented majority and minority reports. The majority report disfranchises all who refuse to vote for or against the Constitution, when submitted to the people, and are otherwise proscriptive. The reports are made the special order for to-morrow.

LONDON, November 11.—The London Globe contradicts the report that all the Danish West India Islands are to be disposed of, and says the Island of St. Thomas, only, is to be sold to the United States, for which the sum to be paid Denmark is eight million dollars in gold.

The disturbance again broke out in Devonshire. There was a bread riot at Barnstable to-day, which exceeded in ferocity and destructiveness the riots of Exeter. The mob broke into butcher shops and bakeries, plundered them and set them on fire. The police and military were obliged to fire on the mob.

Rev. W. J. Butler, appointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury to succeed Dr. Calenz, as bishop of Natal, has declined the preferment.

FRANKFORT, November 9—Evening.—United States bonds, 76½.

LONDON, November 10.—Additional particulars have been received of the terrible calamity in Glamorgan. Few of the miners escaped from the burning pit at Forndale. It is not yet known how many lives were lost.

The Lord Mayor's banquet took place yesterday. All the members of the ministry were present except Lord Derby. Mr. Disraeli made a speech, in which he alluded to the controversies which have arisen between England and the United States; but said the bitter feeling had subsided in America since last year, and he had every reason to hope for the maintenance of those relations of warm friendship demanded by interest and by every moral feeling that could unite the two nations.

FLORENCE, November 10.—The Italia says: King Victor Emanuel, having fulfilled all obligations imposed upon him and Italy by the September Convention, now demands of the Emperor Napoleon the departure of the French troops from the Italian coast. The Italia also says that the King, in his communication to the French Emperor, firmly protests against a European Conference, composed only of Catholic powers, for the settlement of the Roman question.

PARIS, November 11.—The French Government has asked the Papal authorities to release the insurgents who were taken prisoners in the late campaign. The request was refused.

The Moniteur admires the French infantry armed with the Chassepot rifle, and the artillery supplied with rifled cannon, who took part in the battle of Monte Rotondo. They decided the day against Garibaldi.

LIVERPOOL, November 11.—Cotton in fair demand; Orleans, 9¼; sales, 10,000 bales.

LONDON, November 10—midnight.—Latest accounts from Wales state that 200 lives were lost in the Ferdnale mines.

The Times, in an article on the Fenian trial, says it thinks the American nativity of General Nagle will save him from conviction.

PARIS, November 10—evening.—France is seeking an excise loan of twenty-eight million pounds, which, it is represented, the Government wants for peace uses.

The Patrie says the assembling of the general European conference is uncertain, as the views of the great powers on the subject are at present unknown.

PARIS, November 10.—On Sunday Emperor Napoleon went to Lyons, where he met with a cordial reception from the Pope. An address of welcome and congratulation was delivered by the Mayor, which was responded to by the Emperor. In his speech he referred to the material value which the entente cordiale of European powers possess to the peace and civilization of the world.

General Failly, the commander of the French expedition to Rome, reports that the French in the fight at Monte Rotondo lost forty killed and wounded. The Papal troops lost only twelve men. The casualties of the Garibaldians were six hundred killed and as many wounded, while twenty-two hundred were taken prisoners. General Failly says the credit of the great slaughter of rebels is due to the Chassepot rifles. The rebels were only half armed.

FLORENCE, November 11.—King Victor Emanuel has extended aid to the families of the Garibaldians who were killed or wounded in the recent engagements. There is a general discontent throughout Italy, and a state of siege is threatened in every large town.

THE COUNTRY SAVED.

Nashville and Foote upon the Great Political Problems.

First Class Resolutions Passed, and First Class Remarks by the Great "Redoubtable."

At a meeting in Nashville, on Saturday last, called for the purpose of saving the country, the following resolutions were passed, which, as will be seen, received the indorsement of the self-styled "Pairah" of the South:

RESOLUTIONS OFFERED AND PASSED.

On the appointment of the officers of the meeting, the following resolutions were offered and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we have beheld with the highest satisfaction the results of the recent important elections in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and several other States, and recognize them as affording evidence of a marked and salutary change in the public sentiment of the country, as giving promise of a speedy and general return to those wise and equitable administrative principles which so honorably marked the first half century of our history as a free and united people, and as justifying the inspiriting hope of the re-establishment, upon a firm and enduring basis, of those relations of reciprocal amity and confidence between all sections of our republic, and among all classes of our people, which various potential causes have, in these latter days of suffering and misfortune, so deplorably disturbed and suspended; without a complete and early restoration of which relations, it is painfully manifest that we shall never be able to attain that greatness and power for which our sage and patriotic fathers so devoutly prayed, and the splendid realization of which they so confidently anticipated.

Resolved, That, in view of surrounding circumstances, and in consideration of the manifold dangers and difficulties which now environ us, we regard it as eminently expedient that the Democratic party, as it existed among us in the purer and better days of the republic, before certain noxious issues, now forever settled, had crept in to distract its counsels and enfeeble its influence, should be at once reorganized, so that we may be hereafter in full accord with the members of that party existing elsewhere; and, with a view to that end, the President of this meeting is hereby empowered to appoint forthwith a Central Committee of twenty-five members, whose duty it shall be to take charge of this important matter, and, by such means as said committee shall deem advisable, to effect the earliest possible reorganization of said party in every county of the State of Tennessee.

Resolved, That in thus striving at a conjecture so delicate and trying to secure something like a convenient and effective co-operative action among such of our fellow-citizens in Tennessee as chance to concur in approving the well known principles which distinguish the creed of the Democratic party in its national character, it is not at all either our intention or wish to do aught which might have a tendency to keep alive existing irritations, to awaken unpleasant reminiscences of the past, or to confirm unfortunate prejudices growing out of conflicts which have now terminated; but that, on the contrary, we are animated by a patriotic ambition to contribute, to the full extent of our power, in every amicable and becoming mode, to assuage all unkind feeling yet remaining in our midst, so far as practicable; to harmonize divergent opinion; to remove misunderstandings dangerous to the public repose, and to prevail upon our fellow-countrymen of Tennessee everywhere, in a spirit of true Christian charity, to forgive all past wrongs and grievances mutually inflicted in a season of excitement and tempestuous passion, the moving cause of which have no longer any substantial existence, in order that, for the sake of their own and their country's happiness and true honor, they may be, henceforward, one people in opinion, in sentiment, and in interest.

REMARKS OF HON. H. S. FOOTE—A WITHERING REBUKE.

On the adoption of the foregoing resolutions, loud and repeated calls were made for H. S. Foote, who appeared before the vast crowd, full of the fire of his prime, and delivered some brief but characteristic remarks. The speaker said that men's motives were so misunderstood, that for the good of the cause in which we were engaged, he almost regretted that he had been called on to speak or participate—this regret was occasioned from the fact that his past course and identity might be construed by some as cumbering the noble objects in whose interests we had met, and the resolutions adopted. Yet to those present who knew him well, he would say that he was proud of the honor. He did not design detaining the crowd long. He concurred in every word that had been so eloquently uttered by the honorable President. I rejoice with you in our recent triumphs; they show that the people are at last aroused to a maintainance and vindication of their rights. Though poor Tennessee might groan for a time, the people will yet arise and come to her rescue. The people were never made for permanent degradation. Virtually we are denied free speech in Tennessee. It has been said, "knock and it shall be opened unto you." But to-night we had knocked at the door of the corporation and it was not opened. The small, poor privilege of ringing a bell to call the people together to proclaim their principles had been denied. Truly of those denying the privilege it might be said, "they know not what they do." They had been but a short time in Nashville; they had not been long in decent society. It was an act of impertinent folly, that when known would receive the scorn of honest men everywhere. Those who did it were a set of savage ruffians. It was an act that would sink them so low in infamy that no decent white man, nor decent black man would call them equals. It was an act that never should be forgotten, and I denounce the authors of it as ruffians and black guards, and here in the bosom of the people of this beleaguered city I am responsible for what I say, and dare them to the contrary. We are here where we have always been accustomed to meet. We submit to the law, but not to this atrocious act, this act of demons in human shape, these ruffians who endeavor to tyranize over us. We look our tyrants in the face and tell them we will speak and write, and dare their interference; we dare them to call this sedition. Tennessee intends to be free, and her free sons intend to vindicate her, and in this vindication I intend to labor with them, but when she tamely submits to disgrace, then debased in feeling, I will bow my head and leave the State. The speaker concluded his remarks amidst the most deafening cheers, and cries of go on, go on.

TENNESSEE LEGISLATURE.

SENATE.

SATURDAY, November 9.

Senator Carey introduced a bill incorporating a Jewish Benevolent Society in Davidson.

Under a suspension of the rules, a resolution offered by Senator Cate, suspending J. S. Hull from his position as warden of the penitentiary, was adopted.

The Committee on Immigration reported in favor of the bill to incorporate a Board of Immigration, with an amendment appropriating $1,000 to assist in turning the tide of immigration to Tennessee.

Senator Garner was opposed to the bill and amendment. He said the bill gave too much political power to the Executive. We once had a Vice President who was elected as a Republican, but what is he now? The successor of our present Governor may be corrupt enough to use the whole machinery put in his hands by this bill, to importing voters to defeat the Republicans.

Senator Carey warmly advocated the bill, and contended that our only hope of diverting the tide of immigration from its accustomed channel towards the Northwest, is to organize and have agents ready to meet the immigrant and inform him of the vast resources of our State, and its soft, healthful climate. Missouri has a well organized agency, and to-day her hidden wealth is being brought to light by the thrift and energy of the immigrants, who are brought into the State by the very machinery we now propose to inaugurate.

Senator Mathews was opposed to the bill. He did not think the bill, if passed, would bring immigrants here. The lands here are in the hands of a landed aristocracy, and you must break up this aristocracy. If immigrants should come here and propose to settle in Davidson county, where could they get a place to rest their feet upon?

Senator Eckle urged the importance of doing something to invite immigration to this State. He did not believe that land holders were opposed to immigration. He believed that the land holders were very willing to sell their lands; they were burdened with taxes upon their lands, and if we could induce a large influx of German immigration, the country would be developed and taxes reduced.

Senator Lyle thought, as the land holders were to be benefitted by immigration, that they should contribute their five hundred or thousand dollars, to aid in perfecting the machinery of immigration.

Senators Fuson and Rodgers briefly discussed the bill, urging its passage. The bill was then passed, on its second reading, by 15 to 7.

Senate bill creating a new Chancery division in Davidson county, and a new Judicial circuit, for the purpose of criminal trials, in East Tennessee, was passed upon its third reading.

Adjourned till Monday at ten o'clock.

The Technicalities of the Turf.

A "hurdle race" is where a man has heard all about how it is to come out, and therefore knows just how to bet. If the horse stumbles and breaks his rider's neck, the rider is liable to be discharged.

"Handicap"—When a rider is thrown and his cap saves him from a broken head, that is a handy cap. It is expected that the Handy Opera House will cap the climax of opera houses. That is another variety of handy cap.

A "steeple chase" is a race to church on Sunday morning.

A "sweep stakes" is where a thief picks the stakeholder's pocket and makes a clean sweep of the stakes.

"No entrance charge" applies to deadheads and boys who climb the fence.

The letters "g. c." signify gin cocktail; "b. h.," beer hall; "blk. m.," bilk the manager; "b. c.," bunch of celery; "ch. f.," charge it to Ferguson.

"Nursery stakes" are tender, cut thin and well done for the nursery. No other kind of steaks receive any consideration from the children.

A "selling race" is where everybody is sold who attends—foot races at the "rink," for instance.

"Premium $500 for all ages, with allowance to beaten horses." This premium remains the same through all ages. The allowance to beaten horses is a small pension allowed to unfortunate equines that are unmercifully beaten by their masters.

A phrase like the following is incomprehensible to many: "Mr. William Parrot enters b. c. Jimmy by Moonlight, out of dam by imp. Lightning." It means that William Parrot enters a banking concern with a "jimmy" by moonlight, out of his d— impecuniosity, by lightning!—Cincinnati Times.

Eighth Ward—Frank Taft.

The Register "shall open books for the registration of all persons allowed by existing laws to vote in any municipal election, and who reside in said ward; and each voter shall, before offering to vote, cause himself to be registered in said books, and shall receive from the Register a certificate of registration, which shall be numbered to correspond with the name and number on the books of the Register; and no person shall be suffered to vote at any municipal election who shall not have produced to the Judges of election his certificate aforesaid; and no voter shall be allowed to vote in any other ward than the one where he resides and is registered."

W. O. LOFLAND, Mayor.

THE PULMONIC BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY AND WOOD NAPTHA is a carefully compounded medicine, selected with the greatest care, and manufactured exclusively by the discoverer, Dr. Williams, at his laboratory, in person, so that every component particle of this medicine is carefully analyzed and tested before it is offered for sale. This great medicine, although a beautiful transparent wine color, and so pleasant in its taste that the smallest infant will love it, yet in its effects it is instantaneous, after each dose, clearly indicating that a most powerful agent is effecting a great cure, by allaying all the disturbing symptoms which invariably accompany the train of diseases for which this medicine is specially designed.

Inquire for Dr. Williams' Pulmonic Balsam of Wild Cherry and Wood Naptha. Sold by all druggists throughout the South. Dealers can be supplied at J. S. Wasson & Co.'s, wholesale druggists and sole agents for this medicine, to whom all orders must be addressed.

POLAND'S

MAGIC BILIOUS POWDERS

THIS PREPARATION is the discovery of the Rev. J. W. POLAND, formerly the Pastor of the Baptist Church in Goffstown, New Hampshire, and a man dearly beloved by that denomination throughout New England. He was obliged to leave the pulpit and study medicine to save his own life, and his

MAGIC POWDERS

are one of the most wonderful discoveries of modern times. It is

THE GREAT LIVER & BILIOUS REMEDY!

Which completely throws in the shade all other discoveries in medicine; and it affords him much gratification that they receive the unanimous approbation of all who have tested them. The MAGIC BILIOUS POWDERS are a Positive Cure for Liver Complaint!

In its most aggravated form, and an immediate corrector of all

BILIOUS DERANGEMENTS!

Excellent for

HEADACHE, CONSTIPATION,
PIMPLES, BLOTCHES,
SALLOW SKIN, DROWSINESS,
DIZZINESS, HEARTBURN,
PALPITATION,

And, a most wonderful

Cure & Preventive of Fever & Ague!

(We advise all who are troubled with this fearful malady to always keep the Powders on hand ready for immediate use.)

Here are a few important particulars:

1st—They are the Great Specific for all Bilious Affections.

3d—They are the only known remedy that will cure Constipation.

4th—The Powders are so thorough in their operation that one package will be all that the majority of those using them will require to effect a cure.

5th—They are a mild and pleasant yet the most effectual cathartic known.

6th—They are the cheapest and best medicine extant, as they can be sent by mail to any part of the globe for the price, 50 cents.

Circulars containing certificates, information, etc., sent to any part of the world free of charge.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS, or by mail on application to C. G. CLARK & CO., General Agents, New Haven, Conn.

Price 50 cents per Box.

Sheriff's Sale.

UNDER and by virtue of an order of sale to me directed from the Shelby Circuit Court, in an attachment case, wherein [illegible] Moyer is plaintiff and W. H. W[illegible] is defendant, I will,

On Tuesday, November 19, 1867,

Between the hours of ten o'clock a.m. and four o'clock p.m. offer and sell to the highest bidder, for cash, in front of the Court House door in the city of Memphis, county of Shelby, State of Tennessee, the following described personal property, etc. [illegible]

By JAMES F. LANFORD, D. S. P. M. WINTERS, Sheriff of Shelby county.

Trust Sale.

BY virtue of a deed of trust executed to me on the [illegible] day of April, 1866, by John Johnson and F. W. Gribel, to secure to John B. Liddell the payment of a note due and unpaid, and which deed of trust is of record in the Register's office of Shelby county [illegible], I shall, by virtue of said deed of trust, proceed to sell to the highest bidder, for cash, in front of the Tilton Block, Jefferson street, in the city of Memphis, Tennessee,

On Tuesday, December 10, 1867,

Between the hours of ten and two o'clock p.m., [illegible] The equity of redemption is waived, but I only convey as trustee. G. H. MONSARRAT, Trustee.

Trustee's Sale.

BY virtue of a trust deed made to me as trustee by Patrick O'Donnel, on the [illegible] day of October, 1866, [illegible] in the Register's office of Shelby county [illegible], I will, to the Chancery Court Clerk's office,

On the 29th day of November 1867.

Between the hours of ten a.m. and two p.m., proceed to sell to the highest bidder, at public sale, to the door of the Court House in the city of Memphis, a certain lot of land in the city of Memphis, beginning at a stake on the north side of Jefferson street, [illegible]

This property will be sold by me as trustee, to secure the payment of a note for about six hundred dollars, due by Patrick O'Donnel to Martin J. Elliott.

A. J. ELLIOTT, Trustee.

VICKSBURG, MISS., OCTOBER 4, 1867.—In consequence of the prevalence of Yellow Fever in the city of Vicksburg, we feel compelled, by the duty we owe to ourselves, our families and employes, to postpone our Agricultural and Grand Distribution of the Mississippi Agricultural, Educational and Manufacturing Aid Society from the 15th day of October to the 1st of November, 1867.

To give our patrons and the public at a distance the necessary time for renewal of certificates, the Third Preliminary Distribution will be drawn November 25th, and the Grand Drawing December 18th, 1867.

We trust that a kind and indulgent public will both excuse and approve of the short postponement.

Correspondents and persons ordering certificates are requested to direct their communications to the Secretary at Meridian, Miss., to which place our office is temporarily removed. As authorized agent will remain at Vicksburg to attend to any communications or orders for certificates.
